

The Carbon Price Countdown

About the event...

The Federal Government has just announced its plans to implement a carbon price from July 2012. We have brought together a panel of representatives from organisations who will be impacted, to discuss their thoughts on how the policy will play out, how their business is tackling the risks and opportunities a carbon price presents, and how it may affect your organisation.

Don't miss this opportunity to network with like-minded professionals over a great lunch and get a head start on preparing your organisation for a carbon price.

Our Speakers:

Tim McAuliffe — Alcoa of Australia

Tim McAuliffe is General Manager, Climate Strategy and Federal Government Relations for Alcoa of Australia. Tim's responsibilities cover a variety of high profile public issues, including climate change policies such as emissions trading and renewable energy legislation. Tim also leads Alcoa's interaction with Federal Members of Parliament and relevant government agencies.

Brenna Pavey — Horizon Power

Brenna is the acting manager of strategy and valuation for Horizon Power, which is responsible for generating, procuring, distributing and retailing electricity to customers in regional and remote Western Australia.

Before joining Horizon Power, Brenna was a policy analyst for the Chamber of Commerce and Industry of WA and the Chamber of Minerals and Energy, focussing on environment and climate change.

Mark Batty — WALGA

For the last five years, Mark has been managing the Environment and Waste portfolio for the Western Australian Local Government Association. He then moved to a national manager role for the International Council of Local Government Environmental Initiatives (ICLEI), running their Water Campaign program with local governments across Australia.
